Happy New Year!

Highlights from November and December 2013

Interact Activities

Regina Edwards did an amazing job with the Interact clubs this year. Students did an outstanding job during the Purple Pinkie fund raiser for Polio. This was a fun event on their part to help raise money to immunize children in the countries where polio is still active.

Regina, Beth Pequeno and Ann Vaughn have worked with Interact kids this year encouraging them to become involved in the community. Beth and Ann took a group from MAHS to a training conference at GTCC in November. The kids were excited and pumped up with their training.

White Sulphur Springs–Healing Waters

Burke Robertson bought White Sulphur Springs a few years back and spoke with us about its long history. There was a grand hotel where folks from all over traveled to in the late 1800's and early 1900's. They played croquet and lawn tennis; danced in the pavilion under twinkling lights; and drank the healing waters from the spring.

It didn't smell very good because of the Sulphur, but the minerals in the water are to this day a source for healthy living for many who come to fill up their jugs. Burke says if you leave the water uncovered overnight the smell will dissipate and tastes just fine.

For more about this beautiful property and if you would like to live or spend a week-end, go to info@whitesulphurspringsNC.com.

Christmas Caroling Rounds out the Year

We always end the year with programs from local school chorale groups. This sets the tone for a joyous holiday season through musical performances by talented young students.

We finished the year with a grand performance by the Surry Central HS Advanced Mixed Chorus led by Teresa Beshears and accompanied by Dr. Andy Atkins.
